2014 DOMINIO DEL ÁGUILA PEÑAS
ALADAS GRAN RESERVA

Castilla Y León, Spain

0% Bruñal, 0% Albillo, 0% Bobal, 0%
Cariñena, 0% Tempranillo

It feels a lot gentler and approachable than the 2013

I tasted next to it; it's more aromatic and expressive, complex and at the same time easy to understand. The palate is also approachable and tender, with very fine-grained tannins, when in reality, it's very powerful and tannic, but the balance is terrific. It should develop beautifully in bottle, and the Ribera character, which is there, should be even more evident with a little more time.
